The present part of "Hieroglyphic Texts from Egyptian Stelae, etc., in the British Museum," contains the first instalment of copies of the Funerary Stelae of the XIIth and XIIIth dynasties which are exhibited in the Vestibule and Northern Egyptian Gallery.

The greater number of the texts are inscriptions which contain prayers to the Gods of the Dead on behalf of the deceased persons whose figures are cut or painted on the stelae, with their families, servants and others, who are represented making offerings to them. The prayers are petitions that sepulchral meals may be given to the "Kau" or "Doubles" of the deceased persons; and, on many of the stelae there are cut addresses to the visitors to the cemetery, in which they are entreated to pray that a regular supply of offerings may be provided for the dead. These funerary stelae are very important, for they illustrate the development of the Egyptian cult of the dead at Abydos, and show how Osiris came to be identified with the local god Khent-Amenti, and how he rose to the position of Chief god and Judge of the dead.

Of the remainder, a few texts are biographical, e.g., those of Khent-em-semt (Plate VIII), Sa-Hathor (Plates XIX and XX), and Sa-Mentu (Plate XXI). By the information derived from the inscription of Sa-Mentu, the order of the succession of the kings of the XIIth dynasty was settled. Many of the inscriptions are here published for the first time.

The drawings and copies of the texts on Plates I–VI, VIII–XVI, and XVIII–XXII are the work of the late Mr. P. D. Scott-Moereiff, M.A., Assistant in the Department. The drawings on all the other Plates were made by Mr. E. J. Lambert, and the inscriptions on them were copied by Mr. H. R. Hall, M.A., F.S.A., Assistant in the Department, who has also drawn up the descriptions of the Plates.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PLATES.

The numbers of the objects which are not within brackets are the exhibition numbers, as given in the Guide to the Egyptian Galleries (Sculpture), London, 1909. Those which are within brackets are registration numbers.

PLATE I.

No. 175. Upper portion of a grey limestone stele, with cornice and torus, of Nebpu-Senusert, a “Follower of Pharaoh,” dated in the reign of Amenemhat III. Two figures of the deceased are shown, facing one another, with prayers that he may “see the beauties of Aputu,” that he may “see Osiris,” and that he may be “acquitted before the Nine Gods.” Between, is the prenomen of the deceased king Senusert III.

PLATE II.

Lower portion of the same stele, with Nebpu-Senusert seated before his funerary offerings. Beyond is a biographical inscription, and below is a prayer for offerings addressed to the priests of Abydos. The figures are in relief, the hieroglyphs incised on a yellow ground. The lower part of the stele is painted with black and yellow bands. H. 3 ft. 7½ in., W. 2 ft. 1½ in. Salt Collection. XIIth dynasty. From Abydos.

PLATE III.

No. 177. Painted limestone stele of the “real royal kinsman and fiscal official, Senbusenusert, son of Neb-ant. The deceased is shown receiving offerings from his four daughters, and below are his mother and his father, Anhernekht, Comptroller of the Treasury, who receive offerings from his brother, who had the same name and office as their father. Dated in the 25th year of Amenemhat III. Fine style, with delicate colouring. From Abydos(?). Anastasi Collection. XI!th dynasty. H. 2 ft. 11 in., W. 1 ft. 9 in.

PLATE IV.

No. 189. Limestone stele of the Assistant-treasurer, Sa-Anher, with prayers to Osiris, Ra, Keb, and all the gods of Abydos. The deceased is apparently represented twice: on the right with his mother and brother, and on the left as “chief kher-heb,” offering to himself and them; but on the left the name of the original kher-heb has been erased, and that of Sa-Anher inserted, with only part of his title. Below are sixteen of his sons and daughters and two servants. Fine style with delicate colouring; the dress of the women is green. From Abydos(?). Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 3 ft. 6 in., W. 1 ft. 8½ in.
PLATE V.

No. 150. Limestone stele of the Comptroller of the shenāu, Amenemḥāt, with long prayers to Osiris, Aputau Khenti-Abju, Ḫeṣet, Khmemu, and all the gods of Abydos. Dated in the 13th year of Amenemḥāt II. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 3 ft. 5 in., W. 2 ft. 1 in. [567]

PLATE VI.

No. 156. Limestone stele of Tchaa, Guardian of the palace, who is shown receiving offerings from his relatives. Prayers to "Osiris, lord of Ṭetu, Khenti-Amun, great god, lord of Abydos," and to Ḫeṣet, Khmemu, and all the gods of Abydos. Dated in the 6th year of Senuert II. Published: Sharpe, Inscr., ii, 86 (upper part to l. 10); ib., ii, 95 (lower part). Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. From Abydos. H. 3 ft. 5 in., W. 2 ft. 1 in. [573]

PLATE VII.

No. 147. Limestone stele of Khentiemsen (or Khentsemti-ur ("the elder")), an officer of the court, her-sesheta, and high-priest, with his mother, Ṣāt-āthi. Below are his brother, Saner, priest of the pyramid Khorp of King Ameni (Amenemḥāt), his wife, Hathoremḥāt, and his son, Semt-śenb. Fine style. Anastasi Collection (II), 1857. XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 9 in., W. 1 ft. 3 in. [839]

PLATE VIII.

No. 146. Painted limestone stele of Khentiemsen (or Khentsemti)-shere ("the younger"), brother of the foregoing, with his mother, Ṣāt-āthi. The figures of mother and son are finely painted. Long biographical inscription, dated in the reign of Amenemḥāt II. Published: Sharpe, Inscr., i, 79; Budge, Guide to the Egyptian Galleries (Sculpture), Brit. Mus., Pl. vii; Piehl, Inscr., iii, 13, 16; transl. Breasted, Anc. Rec., i, 276 ff. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 3 ft., W. 1 ft. 7 1/2 in. (See, 74t. 2vii, 1r. 8v. 12r. 1v. 2v. 2v.) [574]

PLATE IX.

Lower part of the same stele.

PLATE X.

No. 213. Painted limestone stele of the Palace-guardian of Pharaoh and royal kinsman, Ameni, son of Sat-Sekhemet, with his parents and brethren. The name of Khentamenti in the prayer is unusually spelt. The upper portion of the stele is painted with red and yellow bars, and the text and figures are enclosed within a red border. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 7 in., W. 1 ft. 9 in. [565]

No. 154. Limestone stele of Sen-āṭe Comptroller of the Inner Court, in the reign of Amenemḥāt II, with his mother, Reḥut-ānkh, his wife, Senā, and other relatives. XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 11 1/2 in., W. 1 ft. 2 in. [576]

PLATE XI.

No. 188. Limestone stele, with cornice and torus, of the Steward Nēnā (Ānā), son of the lady Nubi. The deceased is shown receiving offerings from his family. On the side of the stele are remains of another inscription. Poor work: much worn. XIIth-XIIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 11 in., W. 1 ft. 2 1/2 in. [774]
PLATE XII.

No. 212. Painted limestone stela of Änhren, "real royal kinsman" and "Comptroller of the Inner Court of the Treasury." The deceased is shown seated before a table of offerings; below kneel his brother, wife, daughter, and granddaughter. Fine work: well painted. Published: Budge, Guide (Sculpture), Pl. viii; Pielh, Inscr., iii, xv. Anastasi Collection. XI11th dynasty. H. 2 ft. 7 in., W. 1 ft. 8½ in.

No. 138. Painted limestone stela of Áthi, son of Satsebek. Dated in the 14th year of Senusert I. The text contains no prayer for funeral offerings, but is a simple declaration of the rank and virtues of the deceased man, who is shown seated side by side with his wife, Ausâ, who places an arm round his neck, before the offerings: below he again appears in different garb, with two capturers. In the inscription is made the earliest known mention of the god Ámen-Râ, the identification of the Theban Amen with Râ. Very good work: finely coloured. Published: Budge, Guide (Sculpture), Pl. vii. Belmore Collection. XI11th dynasty. H. 2 ft. 1 in., W. 1 ft. 6 in.

PLATE XIII.

No. 251. Limestone stela of Átf (or Neb-âf) and Mentunekht, with their wives. Published: Budge, Guide, p. 74. XI11th dynasty. H. 1 ft. 2½ in., W. 1 ft. 3½ in.

No. 123. Dark grey granite stela of the scribe of the grain, Mentuòpetep, son of Nefertut (see No. 128; Plate XXXIV). XI11th dynasty. H. 1 ft. 11 in., W. 1 ft. 3 in.

PLATE XIV.

No. 229. Limestone stela of the Chief Builder Khenbâk and his wife: their sons the chief builder, Nekauptah, and Ptahòpetep "make his name to live." Published: Pielh, Inscr., iii, xi–xii. Anastasi Collection. XI11th dynasty. H. 1 ft. 8½ in., W. 1 ft. 8½ in.

PLATE XV.

No. 129. Limestone stela of the Sculptor User-ur. The deceased and his wife are shown receiving offerings from their children. In the lower part the red lines of the canon to which the stone-cutter worked are preserved. Published: Lepsius, Auswahl, Taf. xxi. XI11th dynasty. H. 1 ft. 8½ in., W. 1 ft. 6½ in.

PLATE XVI.

No. 190. Limestone stela of the Lady Khu and her husbands, Sa-Hathor and Sa-Amen: their children are shown bringing gifts. The inscriptions are prayers for funeral offerings at the various feasts. Anastasi Collection. XI11th dynasty. H. 4 ft. 1½ in., W. 1 ft. 8 in.

PLATE XVII.

No. 186. Painted sandstone stela of the Hereditary Chief, Seal-bearer, Only Friend, and Comptroller of the Granary, Nechet-Ahner, who is shown with his wife and child, whose names are not given. Prayer to Osiris that the deceased "may see the beauties of Aputau at his first coming-forth." XI11th dynasty. H. 2 ft. 9½ in., W. 1 ft. 3 in.
PLATE XVIII.

No. 168. Limestone stela of the same Nekht-Âner, with a rectangular recess for a statuette. On either side of this is a figure of the deceased. The inscriptions contain the usual prayers. Dated in the reign of Senusert III. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 3 ft. 1 in., W. 1 ft. 7 in. [575]

PLATE XIX.

No. 143. Limestone stela of the Assistant-seal-bearer, Sa-Hathor, with rectangular recess in which is a statuette of the deceased. The inscription is biographical. Published: Sharpe, Inscr., ii, 74; Birch, in the Ag. Zts., 1874, p. 112 ff., and in Egyptian Texts, 21, 24; Pielh, Inscr., III, xviii, xix; Budge, Guide to the Egyptian Collections (Brit. Mus.), Pl. xxiv; transl.Breasted, Anc. Rec., i, p. 273 ff. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 3 ft. 9 in., W. 2 ft. 1 in. [569]

PLATE XX.

Biographical inscriptions from the sides of the recess in the stela of Sa-Hathor. They give the name of the king, Amenemât II, whom Sa-Hathor served. The reading "sixteen" (at. statues) in Breasted, I.e., is an error; the supposed final cipher being merely an accidental mark.

No. 144. Inscriptions on the statuette of Sa-Hathor. [570]

PLATE XXI.

No. 145. Painted limestone stela of the Hereditary Chief and "Only Friend," Sa-Menthu, with a biographical inscription giving the succession of Amenemât I, Senusert I, and Amenemât II. Published: Champollion, Notices, ii, 697; Sharpe, Inscr., i, 83; Brugsch, Thesaurus, vi, 1250; transl. Breasted, Anc. Rec., i, p. 272, who gives references to other publications. Fine work. Anastasi Collection (II), 1857. XIIth dynasty. H. 4 ft. 5 in., W. 1 ft. 7½ in. [828]

PLATE XXII.

No. 140. Limestone stela of the Overseer of the Inner Court, Ântef, son of Sent. Dated in the 39th year of Senusert I. The inscription declares the rank and virtues of the deceased. Published: Sharpe, Inscr., i, 80; Pielh, Inscr., III, xii, xiii. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 3 ft. 7 in., W. 1 ft. 6 in. [572]

PLATE XXIII.

No. 197. Limestone stela of the same Ântef, son of Sent, with inscription, probably poetical in form, in which he declares his virtues. Published: Sharpe, Inscr., ii, 83. Anastasi Collection. XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 2 in., W. 1 ft. 2½ in. [581]

PLATE XXIV.

No. 141. Lower part of a limestone stela, with inscription of Ântef, son of Sent, in which he declares his virtues. At the side is a figure of Ântef, leaning on his stick; an unconventional representation. Published: Sharpe, Inscr., ii, 84; Pielh, Inscr., III, xiii-xiv. Anastasi Collection, XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 11½ in., W. 1 ft. 7½ in. [562]

1 All these inscriptions of Ântef, son of Sent, are very difficult to translate, being full of unusual words. The stonemason seems also to have made many mistakes, although the style of the cutting is very good.
DESCRIPTION OF THE PLATES.

No. 142. Two inscriptions from the sides of the seat of a limestone seated figure of Antef, son of Sent. Anastasi Collection, XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 1½ in. [461.]

PLATE XXV.

No. 211. Limestone stela of the "beloved royal kinsman, Governor of the South and North Land, Comptroller of the Inner Court, Sa-Aset," with his family. Anastasi Collection, XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 10 in., W. 1 ft. 2 in. [561.]

PLATE XXVI.

No. 151. Upper part of a limestone stela of the Steward Sehetepab and his family, dated in the 19th year of Amenemhat II. In the centre, beneath the winged sun, are the date, a prayer to Osiris, and a very full list of offerings in small hieroglyphs. [583]

PLATE XXVII.

Lower part of the same stela. The elaborate table of offerings, with a large ear of wheat beneath it, is noticeable. Anastasi Collection, XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 2 in., W. 1 ft. 7½ in. [583.]

PLATE XXVIII.

No. 224. Painted limestone stela of Senusert, with prayer to Osiris. Published: Budge, Guide, Pl. x. Sanns Collection, 1834. XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 5¾ in., W. 1 ft. [198.]

PLATE XXIX.

No. 308. Limestone stela of Khertemsaft showing the deceased with his relatives. Crude style. Sanns Collection, 1834. XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 1½ in., W. 8½ in. [196.]

PLATE XXX.

No. 178. Limestone stela of the Captain of the Ships, Setua (?). Dated in the 28th year of Amenemhat III. A list of his family is given. Anastasi Collection (II), 1857. XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 2 in., W. 1 ft. 4½ in. [327.]

PLATE XXXI.

No. 221. Limestone stela of the nfrtu officer, Kemeuf, and his children. At the top are representations of Osiris and Aputu. The style is unusual, no features being indicated in the faces. XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 3½ in., W. 10½ in. [222.]

PLATE XXXII.

No. 223. Limestone stela of Reupaf, Keeper of the Seal, inscribed with an address to those who pass by his tomb, exhorting them to pray that the necessary offerings may be given to his Ka. Above are the two sacred uchat-eyes and the shen-ring between the jackals of Aputu. Boldly cut. Sanns Collection, 1834. XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 8 in., W. 1 ft. 1 in. [240.]
PLATE XXXIII.

No. 207. Limestone stele of the chief priest As. The inscription, containing prayers for offerings at the various festivals, is cut in an unusual style. Published: Sharpe: _Lxxxr.,_ i, 23. XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 5 in., W. 1 ft. 4 in. [193]

PLATE XXXIV.

No. 123. Limestone stele, with prayers to "Osiris-Khentamenti-Apuatu, lord of Abydos," for the lady Nefertut, set up by her son, Mentu-ḥetep (see No. 123, Plate XIII). Well cut. _Salt Collection._ XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 10 in., W. 1 ft. 7 in. [152]

PLATE XXXV.

No. 205. Limestone stele of the Chief Builders, Nechet-Ḥeru and Ptah-kau, who are shown with their wives and other relatives. Prayers to Osiris and Ptah-Sekri. Probably from Sakkārah. The style resembles that of the Old Kingdom. _Anastasi Collection._ XIIth dynasty. H. 2 ft. 2 in., W. 1 ft. 4 in. [560]

PLATE XXXVI.

No. 204. Limestone stele of Amenemhat, Comptroller of the Inner Court. The seated figure is well painted, and the hieroglyphs finely cut. The style resembles that of the Old Kingdom. _Anastasi Collection._ XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 10 in., W. 2 ft. 2 in. [387]

PLATE XXXVII.

No. 203. Limestone stele of Sasanb and his wife, Aī (or Iā), with prayers to Osiris, Apuat, and Unnefer. The figures and hieroglyphs are finely cut. The style resembles that of the Old Kingdom. _Anastasi Collection._ XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 7 in., W. 2 ft. 6 in. [580]

PLATE XXXVIII.

No. 307. Limestone stele of the lady Se-ur-reshet-ḥunnut (or Sureshet-ḥunnut) and her son, Heneka. Cut in a simple style, without lines. XIIth—XIIth dynasty. H. 1 ft. 8 in., W. 1 ft. 4½ in. [1061]

No. 309. Limestone stele of Ank-h-Ḥeru and his wife. Cut in simple style, without lines. _Sims Collection, 1834._ XIIth—XIIth dynasty. H. 9½ in., W. 5½ in. [195]

PLATE XXXIX.

No. 287. Painted limestone stele of Rensnb, son of Ḥapu. Crude style. XIIth—XIIth dynasty. From Thebes. H. 1 ft. 1½ in., W. 1 ft. [636]

PLATE XL.

No. 121. Limestone stele set up by the Sealbearer of the King of Lower Egypt, Sehpetepah, in memory of his father, User-Khensu, his mother, Nekhtet-ānkh, and other members of his family. Rough style. XIIth dynasty. Published: Budge, _Guide (Sculpture),_ Pl. v. H. 1 ft. 9½ in., W. 10 in. [643]
PLATE XLII.

Central portion of the same stele, with figures of the steward Kañ, and other members of the family of Atef-âger.

PLATE XLIII.

Lower portion of the same stele, with figures of other sons and daughters, and Ager-shere with his young son, Ager-senb, and an official named Meri, giving praise to Apuatu. XIITH dynasty. H. 2 ft. 8½ in. W. 1 ft. 7 in. [129.]

PLATE XLIV.

No. 185. Painted limestone stele, with cornice and torus, of the chief Nekhtâ, with his mother, wife, and nurse. From Abydos. Salt Collection. XIITH dynasty. H. 2 ft. 8 in., W. 1 ft. 8½ in. [143.]

PLATE XLV.

No. 286. Limestone stele of same type and style, of Iusenb and his wife, with prayers to Osiris, “lord of Aânhtau.” XIITH dynasty. H. 1 ft. 4 in., W. 10½ in. [861.]

PLATE XLVI.

No. 124. Limestone stele of the same type and style, with rounded top, of the “follower” Mer, the ânkh-officer of the city Sankhâ, and a man named Nekhtâ. Mer holds the whip of Osiris. Prayers to Osiris and Ptah-Seker. XIITH dynasty. H. 1 ft. 6½ in., W. 11 in. [1312.]

PLATE XLVII.

No. 216. Limestone stele, of the same type and style, of the Keeper of the Throne Khenemes, and the Superintendant of the Sealers Nehî. XIITH dynasty. H. 1 ft. 8½ in., W. 1 ft. 1 in. [903.]

PLATE XLVIII.

No. 220. Limestone stele of the same type and style, with rude figures and inscriptions commemorating the deceased Hêpu (who is shown seated), the lady Neferu, and others. Sams Collection, 1834. XIITH-XIITH dynasty. H. 1 ft. 5 in., W. 11 in. [205.]

PLATE XLIX.

No. 192. Round-topped limestone stele, with prayers to Osiris and Anubis for Henit, daughter of Rehu-ânkh, and ten other persons. Above is the name of the city Shas-ûtet (in Middle Egypt), to which the family of Henit presumably belonged. The inscriptions are in a partly hieratic script. Sams Collection. XIITH-XIITH dynasty. H. 1 ft. 4 in., W. 11½ in. [228.]

PLATE L.

No. 219. Limestone stele of Set-âsêf, or Set-em-sêf, Pharaoh’s steward, with his family. Dated in the reigns of Amenemhat III and IV. Above are the cartouches of the kings and rude figures of Osiris and Anubis. (The occurrence of a proper name compounded with that of the god Set so early as the time of Amenemhat III is interesting.) Very rudely cut, and much worn. Salt Collection. XIITH dynasty. H. 1 ft. 1 in., W. 8 in. [258.]
